5. During the opening ceremony, Dr. Maxwell Mkwezalamba, Commissioner for Economic Affairs, delivered a statement on behalf of the African Union. In his opening remarks, the Commissioner thanked H.E. Mr. Laureant Gbagbo, President of the Republic of Cote d'Ivoire, the Government and People of Cote d'Ivoire for the warm welcome and hospitality accorded to all the delegations and for hosting the Third Conference of African Ministers in Charge of Integration. He pointed out that the Government of Cote d'Ivoire has hosted the Conference at a time when the country was in the process of transition from an era of conflict and this was a clear manifestation of the commitment of the Government towards Africa's integration efforts.

6. He further thanked the Member States and partners of the African Union, including the United Nations Economic Commission for Africa (UNECA), for their participation, which clearly indicated their commitment and willingness to work in collaboration with the African Union in forging ahead Africa's integration agenda.

7. On the issue of globalisation, the Commissioner emphasized the role that regional integration could play in transforming African countries into industrial and knowledge-based economies, which are currently heavily reliant on the primary sector. In this respect, he called upon the Conference to address ever growing challenges of Africa in promoting regional integration by providing the necessary means and resources for the implementation of recommendations relating to the integration agenda made in Ouagadougou, Burkina Faso, and Kigali, Rwanda, in March 2006 and July 2007, respectively, by the Ministers in Charge of Integration. He informed the Conference that integration was one of the items to be considered by the June/July 2008 African Union Assembly in Sharm el Sheikh, Egypt.

8 Finally, the Commissioner urged the Ministers to come up with a Declaration that would highlight the importance of strong political will and the need for all African stakeholders and development partners to work together with a view to enhancing the integration agenda.

9. Addressing the Conference after the Commissioner was Mr. Aboullie Janneh, the United Nations Under Secretary General and Executive Secretary of the ECA. In his opening remarks, he thanked the Government of Cote d'Ivoire for being exemplary in promoting regional integration. He further saluted the President of Cote d'Ivoire for his efforts in pushing forward the development agenda as well as in safeguarding the peace and security of the nation. He further commended the efforts of the African Union Commission (AUC) in promoting regional integration in Africa. In this respect, he reported that the 12 Heads of State, mandated by the 10th African Union Assembly were meeting in Arusha to reflect on a framework for building the Union Government of Africa.

10. The Executive Secretary pointed out that many African countries were pursuing policies, which were geared towards sustainable economic growth and poverty alleviation in line with the priorities of NEPAD. The policies had contributed to the overall economic performance of the continent with the continent's economy growing at about 5.8 per cent in 2007 up from 5.7 per cent in 2006. He outlined some of the factors attributing to Africa's high growth rate, including increased global demand for commodities, such as crude oil, metals and minerals; improved macroeconomic management; increased private capital flows; as well as better governance in many parts of the continent. He pointed out that despite improving economic circumstances in Africa, challenges still remained, including the management of current high oil and food prices.

11. The Executive Secretary commended the efforts by African countries in promoting regional integration. To this effect, he cited the harmonization of policies in the areas of trade, infrastructure, and information communication technology (ICTs) as some of the major achievements. In this regard, he also applauded efforts by the RECs towards the acceleration of sub-regional integration. To support the process of regional integration, he called upon the Conference to focus on removing key constraints to regional integration and to identify readily implementable measures to accelerate the process.

12. Also addressing the Conference was the Chairman of the NEPAD Business Group, Dr. Bamanga Tukur. He commended the African Union for an invitation extended to the African private sector to attend the important Conference in recognition of the important role played by the private sector in promoting Africa's regional integration efforts.

13. He reaffirmed the support of the private sector in integrating economies of Africa as outlined in the Treaty establishing the African Economic Community. He further reiterated the issues raised at previous African Union Conferences by the private sector, which needed strong involvement of all stake holders in developing integration policies for the Continent.

14. The Minister of African Integration of Cote d'Ivoire, H.E. Mr. Amadou Kone expressed gratitude to the President, the Prime Minister and the Government of Cote d'Ivoire for accepting to host the Third Conference of African Ministers in Charge of Integration. He thanked the African private sector and the RECs for participating in the Conference. He further thanked development partners for their involvement, in particular the European Union for their constant support to Africa's development. He requested the Conference to deliberate on issues that would lead to the integration of African people and not only that of States.

15. The Conference was officially opened by His Excellency Mr. Guillaume Soro, Prime Minister of the Republic of Cote d'Ivoire. In his opening address, the Prime Minister thanked the President of Cote d'Ivoire for accepting to host the Conference. He indicated that the Conference came at an opportune time when the country and the sub-region were going through a process of reconciliation and unity.

16. Commenting on some of the achievements by the ECOWAS region on regional integration, the Prime Minister recalled the provision in the Constitution of Cote d'Ivoire, to be part of the regional integration process within and across the West African region. In this respect, he pointed out some of the decisions taken by Cote d'Ivoire in this area, which included, the abolition of residence permits for ECOWAS members residing in Cote d'Ivoire and the issuing of the ECOWAS passport to Ivorian citizens.

17. On regional integration, he outlined some of the major challenges currently affecting the attainment of integration of the continent. These included high oil and basic food prices; insufficient energy supply; and climate change. However, he pointed out that Africa should take advantage of high food prices to increase food production and promote intra Africa trade. He finally reaffirmed Cote d'Ivoire's commitment in supporting regional integration efforts in close collaboration with the African Union.

VI. PROCEEDINGS

COMMUNICATIONS

a). Advocacy for Regional and Continental Integration

20. This item was the subject of communication by H.E. Mr. Amadou Kone, Minister in Charge of Integration of Cote D'Ivoire. In his communication, the Minister recalled the integration vision of the OAU Founding Fathers in the 1963 Charter as well as the decisive turning point that took place in 1991 with the advent of the African Economic Community (AEC) and the impetus given to it by the Sirte Declaration of 09/9/1999 on the speeding up of the integration process.

21. The Minister recommended that the current integration approach needed to be refocused if Africa were to rise up to the challenges it faced. To this end, there was need for the stakeholders, more particularly the intellectuals, to reflect on integration related problems. He proposed scenarios likely to generate synergy between regional integration organizations and the competent organs of the African Union.

22. Consequently, he recommended:

- i. The institutionalization of a Conference of Chairpersons of the RECs and the Chairperson of the African Union;
- ii. The establishment of ministerial structures in all Members State that do not yet have such structures as well as National Committees in Charge of Integration;
- iii. The need to open up the Executive Council session to the participation Ministers in Charge of Integration;
- iv. Strengthen dialogue between regional institutions and civil society;
- v. Need to strengthen the capacities of institutions which are currently implementing regional integration; and
- vi. Need to foster private sector development to assist in moving the regional integration agenda forward.

Discussion

23. The Conference underscored the need to strengthen ministries of integration to ensure that continental decisions are applied, as well as supporting the proposal to create such ministries in countries that have not done so. It was further noted that for regional integration to move forward, there was need to strengthen solidarity at national, regional and continental level. Participants also expressed concern regarding the slow progress made on the free movement of people, goods, capital and services in the Continent and stressed that this is a major obstacle to attaining regional integration. The Conference further noted that free movement has not made much progress, despite being a central component of the integration agenda as set out in the Abuja Treaty. The Conference also agreed that there is a need to integrate infrastructure projects as contained in the NEPAD infrastructure programme.

24. The Conference observed that the results in terms of regional integration were below the expectations of the people. It went on to question whether the current level of integration was suitable to countries' needs, aspirations and the challenges they face. It was further concluded that the EPA negotiations and the recent food crisis had adversely contributed to the poor performance in a number of integration activities and programmes. The Conference stressed the need to involve research institutions to brainstorm on the objectives, methods and basis of economic integration as well as shed light on the weaknesses and limitation of the regional integration process. The Conference also emphasized the need to promote ownership of the integration process amongst African people.

Recommendations

25. At the end of the discussion the following recommendations were made:

- i. Call upon Member States that have not yet done so, to establish Ministries of Integration and National Commissions;
- ii. Diplomatic passports should be exempt from visa requirements
- iii. Urge Member States to include in their delegations to the AU Executive Council Ministers in Charge of Integration;
- iv. Stronger solidarity and sharing of ideas should be encouraged amongst the Member States of the Union;
- v. AU Member States should take necessary measures and actions to make free movement of persons, goods, capital and services a reality; and
- vi. Establish a regular meeting between the Chairpersons of RECs and the Chairperson of the African Union

b) Governance, Sovereignty and Regional Integration

26. The communication on this theme was made by H. E. Mr. Nelson Gagawala Wambuzi, Minister of State for Trade of Uganda. In his communication, he gave a brief overview of progress made in governance and sovereignty issues on the Continent, including the establishment of the AU and its related Organs, the African Peer Review Mechanism (APRM) and the move towards democracy, good political and economic governance.

27. He went on to highlight some of the existing shortfalls including lack of transparency of governance, socio-political legitimacy, the rule of law and lack of widespread popular empowerment in some regions, the manner in which elections are conducted, and other malpractices. He also highlighted the slow progress of the APRM and the need for stronger linkages between the APRM, the RECs and other regional bodies and institutions.

28. The African experience was compared with the European integration model, in which it was acknowledged that some functions were best executed collectively and that the institutions charged with these responsibilities were empowered to discharge their mandate effectively. On the way forward, the Minister emphasized the need to vest in AU institutions greater powers of decision-making, enforcement and oversight in order to address these challenges taking into consideration the European model.

29. In conclusion, he made the following suggestions:

- i. Member States should make stronger efforts to pool their sovereignty and cede greater powers to AU institutions to enable them to undertake continental objectives as set out in the AU Constitutive Act;
- ii. The AU Commission should be upgraded beyond that of a Secretariat and given powers and adequate means to implement and monitor AU decisions;
- iii. Regional governance mechanisms should be harmonized and aligned with that of the APRM; and
- iv. RECs should become actively involved in the APRM activities, supporting the review process where possible and using it as a tool to drive the implementation of the integration agenda forward; this will enable the ARPM to become a more credible continental framework.

Discussion

30. The Conference noted that the communication raised pertinent issues regarding governance, sovereignty and regional integration. In this respect, it was observed that without good political, economic and corporate governance the attainment of regional integration would not be possible. It was observed that a number of African countries were not effectively focusing on their governance systems which are key to the integration process. The Conference also discussed the need for strong linkages between the AU and the RECs in dealing with issues of governance and sovereignty.

31. The discussion also focused on the relationship between political and economic governance. Specifically it was noted that peace and security is a prerequisite for economic development and regional integration. In this respect, the Conference proposed that ceding part of the sovereignty of Member States to regional and Continental institutions would further strengthen peace and security in the Continent.

32. The Conference also discussed the importance of the APRM in promoting good governance, which is key for regional integration. It was observed that not all Member States had acceded to the APRM process and they be encouraged to do so. Effective implementation of the APRM process would go a long way in improving the management of domestic resources.

Recommendations

33. The following recommendations were made:

- i. Member States should consider to gradually transfer part of their sovereignty to the regional and continental institutions along the principles of subsidiarity for the realization of regional integration; and
- ii. Call upon Member States to use existing mechanisms, like the APRM, in promoting good governance.

c) External Debt and Integration

34. The communication on this theme was made by H.E. Dr. Maxwell Mkwezalamba, Commissioner for Economic Affairs. He started by pointing out the need to mobilise both domestic and foreign resources in order to accelerate Africa's integration efforts. Regarding foreign resources, the Commissioner called upon the International Monetary Fund (IMF), the World Bank, and the African Development Bank (AfDB), among others, to fully implement their commitments on debt cancellation, which could create fiscal space. He further noted that debt relief resources had not done enough to support projects and programmes that could accelerate Africa's integration.

35. He outlined some of the challenges facing many African countries in accessing debt relief initiatives. These included non-completion of the Highly Indebted Poor Countries Initiative (HIPC) by many African countries; macroeconomic instability; maintenance of long-term debt sustainability; and non-inclusion of non-HIPC countries in the debt relief initiative. He further highlighted several factors that had undermined Africa's ability to service its debt, including persistence of a narrow productive base, non-complementary economic structures, high interest rates and the frequent rescheduling of debt at non-concessional terms.

36. The Commissioner concluded by suggesting the following:

- i. The need to increase domestic resource mobilization through implementing tax reforms, liberalization of financial markets and prudent public debt management;
- ii. Diversification of product and export base;
- iii. Enhanced debt management capacity to ensure the efficient use of resources to avoid unsustainable debt levels;
- iv. More reliance on concessional loans and grants;
- v. Pursuance of prudent macroeconomic and fiscal policies;
- vi. Official Development Assistance (ODA) to target the financing of integration projects; and
- vii. Address supply side constraints to stimulate investment and overall factor productivity.

Discussion

37. The Conference pointed out that there was a link between governance and debt management. In this respect, they agreed that the debt problem could not be tackled without addressing governance issues. The Conference observed that regional integration could promote better use of public resources and improve the management of debt. It was stressed that there was a need to simplify the institutional architecture in the regions to ensure rationalization and better utilization of limited resources.

38. The Conference agreed on the need for development partners to fully implement their commitment regarding the cancellation of debt, which could go a long way in promoting regional integration.

Recommendations

39. The following recommendations were made:

- i. Governance issues should be addressed in parallel with issues of debt sustainability;
- ii. Capacities of Member States in debt management issues should be strengthened; and

- iii. Call upon Member States to diversify their products and export bases to increase the revenue bases.

VIII. CONSIDERATION OF THE EXPERT'S REPORT

40. The Conference, after taking note of the report and considering the recommendations contained therein, recommended the following:

a) Financing Community Infrastructure and Regional Integration

f) Recommendations from the First and Second Conferences of African Ministers in-Charge of Integration (COMAI) – Follow-up Report

- i. An evaluation framework should be developed to assess the actions taken by Member States, the RECs and the AUC to implement recommendations from the Conferences of African Ministers in Charge of Integration (COMAI).
