CONCEPT NOTE ON THE THEME OF THE YEAR: “REFUGEES, RETURNEEES AND INTERNALLY DISPLACED PERSONS: TOWARDS DURABLE SOLUTIONS TO FORCED DISPLACEMENT IN AFRICA” CONCEPT NOTE AND ROADMAP FRAMEWORK
ON THE THEME OF THE YEAR: “REFUGEES, RETURNEES AND INTERNALLY DISPLACED PERSONS: TOWARDS DURABLE SOLUTIONS TO FORCED DISPLACEMENT IN AFRICA”

1. In the framework of the long-term vision encapsulated in Agenda 2063 the African Union’s (AU) Assembly of Heads of State and Government adopted a Common African Position on Humanitarian Effectiveness (CAP) and called for a ten-year period of transformation to strengthen humanitarian action on the continent (Decision 604 (XXVI)). The CAP defines Africa’s new humanitarian architecture, which includes the creation of the African Humanitarian Agency as a vehicle for Africa’s humanitarian action. The new humanitarian architecture also emphasizes addressing root causes and achieving durable solutions, as well as bolstering the capacity of States and other stakeholders to tackle the challenges of forced displacement on the continent.

2. In this context, the AU will mark the theme of the year focusing on refugees, Internally Displaced Persons (IDPs) and returnees. It will also commemorates the 50th anniversary of the adoption of the 1969 Organization of African Unity Convention Governing the Specific Aspects of Refugee Problems in Africa (OAU Refugee Convention) as well as the 10th anniversary of the adoption of the 2009 AU Convention for the Protection and Assistance of Internally Displaced Persons in Africa (the Kampala Convention) in 2019. At its 29th Assembly in July 2017, the AU’s Executive Council called on the Union to declare 2019 the Year of Refugees, Returnees and IDPs, and called on the AU to work with the Office of the Secretary General of the United Nations, UNHCR and others to organize a series of commemorative events ‘that will bring global visibility to forced displacements in Africa’ (Decision 968 (XXXI)).
In July 2018, at Nouakchott, Mauritania, AU Assembly of Heads of State and Government of the African Union adopted Decision AU/Dec.707(XXXI) declared 2019 as “the Year of Refugees, Returnees and Internally Displaced Persons: Towards Durable Solutions to Forced Displacement in Africa.”

BACKGROUND AND HUMANITARIAN AND DISPLACEMENT SITUATIONS IN AFRICA

3. There are estimated 68 million forcibly displaced persons in the world. Over a third of the world’s forcibly displaced persons are in Africa, including 6.3 million refugees and asylum-seekers and 14.5 million internally displaced persons (IDPs).¹
The causes of forced displacement and humanitarian crisis are multiple and complex.
They include conflicts, poor governance, human rights violations, environmental degradation, effects of climate change and natural disasters. Many of the displaced also find themselves in protracted displacement situations. According to the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees, there are 712,000 stateless persons in the continent.

4. The vast majority of persons are displaced as a result of conflicts and violence.
However natural disasters, health emergencies such as Ebola outbreak, food insecurity, extreme poverty and other factors also underpin these challenges. In Africa, as in many other locations, far more people are displaced within the boundary of their countries. Politicization of immigration and xenophobia have exposed African refugees and migrants to various types of risks and violations. In some countries, large number of refugees and migrant remain in detention.

5. Despite significant resource constraints and limited capacities faced by many large-refugee population hosting countries in Africa, governments and local communities continue to shoulder responsibilities and showing solidarity by sheltering the displacement and facilitating their access to facilities. Too often this has degraded the resources and resilience opportunities for host communities. Beyond contributions toward a global public good, the actions by these countries towards fostering regional stability and peace is commendable. Against the backdrop of rhetoric on global solidarity and burden-sharing, several national refugee programs remain substantially underfunded, leaving refugees and host communities with little resource to rely on.

6. The scale of the displacement crisis is compounded by risks of trafficking, human rights abuse, incidents of refoulement, lack of adequate humanitarian assistance, mixed migration, sexual and gender based violence, forced recruitment and securitization of border areas, detention of asylum seekers, deportation, xenophobia and targeting of refugees and IDPs settlements. Mixed movement of migrants and refugees from East and the Horn of Africa, West Africa and Central Africa continue to become a major challenge in the region. Globally only 1 percent of refugees have access to resettlement. Access to tertiary education, important for supporting livelihoods of refugees, is considerably limited to refugees.

7. Lack of opportunities have forced particularly the youth from various parts of Africa to seek opportunities elsewhere, often being trapped in more complex and dangerous environments. Despite recent reform efforts to promote “out of camp” strategies and approaches in a number of African countries, many refugees are still placed in camps, being isolated from necessary services such as education, health and other services.

AU LEGAL AND POLICY FRAMEWORK

8. Africa has an impressive tradition of protecting the forcibly displaced. Complementing the global framework of international refugee and human rights law, Africa has developed a strong complementary regional refugee, IDP and human rights legal framework to address forced displacement. Currently, 46 of the AU’s 55 Member States are party to the OAU Convention and 25 Member States are party to the Kampala Convention. At their adoption, these instruments were considered remarkable legal innovations, and they have since become cornerstones for the protection of forcibly displaced persons in Africa. The anniversaries provide a strategic opportunity to re-commit to the values, principles and standards of this legal framework.

9. The AU’s Executive Council has urged AU Member States and the AU Commission to work, in collaboration with UNHCR, in implementing the 2016 New York Declaration for Refugee and Migrants (New York Declaration), particularly with regard to the Comprehensive Refugee Response Framework (CRRF), and to contribute to the development of the Global Compact for Refugees (Decision 990 (XXXII)). The commemorations provide a strong platform on which to launch the operationalization of the forthcoming Global Compact on Refugees.

10. The OAU/AU has consistently marked milestone anniversaries of the OAU Convention. The first such initiative, the ‘Commemorative Symposium on Refugees and the Problems of Forced Population Displacements in Africa’, was held in Addis Ababa in 1994, the 25th anniversary of the Convention’s adoption and 20 years since its entry into force. The symposium adopted the Addis Ababa Document on Refugees and Forced Population Movements in Africa. The OAU’s Assembly of Heads of State and Government then went on to adopt the ‘Tunis Declaration on the 1969 Convention Governing the Specific Aspects of Refugee Problems in Africa’ (AHG/Decl 216). The 30th anniversary was marked by a meeting of government and non-governmental experts convened by the OAU and UNHCR in Conakry. This resulted in a Comprehensive Implementation Plan that was subsequently endorsed by the OAU’s Council of Ministers, referred to by the OAU’s Assembly of Heads of State and Government. Most recently, the 40th anniversary focused on the protection and assistance of IDPs and resulted in the adoption of the Kampala Convention.

11. Mechanisms for overseeing the implementation of the OAU Convention on Refugees is provided for under article 7 of the Convention. The Kampala Convention also provides for the establishment of a Conference of States Parties to monitor and review the implementation of the objectives of this Convention. Nine countries have not yet ratified the 1969 OAU Refugee Convention which turns 50 years old in 2019. 27 Member States of the AU are parties to the Kampala Convention. Member States shared their experiences in domesticating these two important treaties.

12. AUC need to implement advocacy activities on the ratification of the treaties. The RECs have an important role in studying, documenting and disseminating information on constraints and bottlenecks faced by Member States regarding ratification and domestication. These efforts could also facilitate inter-state learning, provide technical support and build capacities of Member States.

13. In order to achieve some of the objectives of the theme of the year, the AUC needs to quickly nominate the champion of the theme for the purpose of high-level advocacy and political mobilization including on ratification and domestication processes. The office of the Legal Counsel at the AUC need to work aggressively on the dissemination of the procedure for signature as well as the model law including organizing treaty signing events. A signing ceremony of the two conventions at the margins of the 32nd AU Summit by those who have not signed the Conventions needs to be organized.

14. The model law on Kampala convention is seen as an important tool supporting the domestication and implementation of the Kampala Convention. The humanitarian week and activities of the AU PSC could help reinforce ratification and domestication. In order to ensure increased ownership of implementation of the OAU/Kampala Convention, all actors need to popularize the treaties through workshops, awareness raising initiatives and capacity building training.
CROSS CUTTING AND PRIORITY ISSUES

15. Addressing the needs of host communities: Population hosting the forcibly displaced are often neglected with the primary focus placed on and attention given to the people displaced. Host communities need to be assisted and supported. This will increase their resilience, build trust and collaboration and support buy-in to humanitarian and development efforts.

16. A continental approach to meet the needs and face challenges: Refugee hosting countries should develop regional emergency response plans like the one elaborated for the South Sudan refugee crisis. This gives involved countries an opportunity to voice their demands as a region and a collective. Member states need to express, through guidance and support from RECs and AUC, their common concern and mobilize resources with the view to catering for the needs of affected population in a spirit of solidarity and partnership. In addition to relief and rehabilitation activities Member States should undertake collective efforts to address root causes of displacement. The active engagement of civil society organization, many of whom are front-runners and supporters of communal and national level efforts targeting refugees, IDPs and returnees, is paramount.

17. Thinking beyond short-term phenomenon: Displaced persons and refugees are more likely to thrive if allowed to explore and search for alternative coping mechanism. Addressing protracted displacement situations requires all actors to tap into the capacities and skills of the people affected. If the potentials of the people concerned are exploited properly, they can generate immense resources in support of local initiative, stirring communal and national-level development programs. Displaced persons need not be a burden. A shift to development-oriented and innovative approaches - ensuring the nexus between humanitarian and developmental program – is therefore called for. Commendable national-level efforts such as the Jobs Compact in Ethiopia and the new Uganda’s liberal refugee policy were mentioned as lessons-learnt in supporting self-reliance and resourcefulness of refugees and host communities.

18. Transparency, accountability and protection of humanitarian personnel: It is critical to ensure trust, transparency and countably is maintained and strengthened across humanitarian work. Accountability should be part of the fabric of civil society organizations and NGOs. Beyond accountability to peer organisations and donors, organizations need to strengthen accountability to beneficiaries. Member States have the responsibility to ensure their laws are not impeding the activities of the badly needed interventions. States are also required to commit to the protection and safety of the humanitarian work force who often work and deliver e much needed assistance to affected populations in hardship areas.

19. Supporting the role of the youth: More investment is needed to support the youth to encourage their role as elements of change and forces for development. Additional resources are needed to cater for alternatives means of livelihoods. Increasing access to education and schooling is a critical element in this regard with a special focus on assisting the most vulnerable and the people in need. In this regard, the Djibouti Declaration on Regional Conference on Refugee Education in IGAD Member States, adopted in December 2017, was cited as an example of regional policy framework aimed at expanding social services particularly education for the youth.

20. Against this background and in line with the CAP, the overarching objective is to undertake a series of activities in 2018, 2019 and beyond aimed at addressing root causes and achieving solutions to forced displacement in Africa.
